

Anke Kuhrmann

Dr. Anke Kuhrmann Assistant Professor Department of Architectural Conservation Faculty 2: Architecture, Civil Engineering and Urban Planning Brandenburg University of Technology Cottbus anke.kuhrmann@tu-cottbus.de Anke Kuhrmann was born in 1974 in Recklinghausen/Germany. She studied History of Art, German and Film- and TV-Science at the Ruhr-University of Bochum. In 2003 she received a Doctor of Philosophy with a paper written on the House of Parliament of the former GDR with the title 'Palace of the Republic - History and Significance of the House of Parliament and Culture of East-Berlin'. From 2004 to 2006 she was employed at the Berlin Monument Authority. Since April 2006 she is assistant professor at the Department of Architectural Conservation at the Brandenburg University of Technology Cottbus. She works in teaching and research and organises the master degree course 'Building and Conservation'. Since 2007 she is member of the research project 'The Berlin Wall as Symbol of the Cold War: From an Instrument of the SED Home Policy to an Architectural Monument of International Rank'.

Australian Institute of Architects

ISC20C

ICOMOS International Scientific Committee on 20th Century Heritage