

Danielle Pacaud

Danielle Pacaud is a Heritage Advisor at Heritage Tasmania. Studying at London University she trained and practised as an architect in England. In Bristol then Liverpool, she worked with community organisations on the adaptive re-use of 19th and 20th century places through programmes of urban renewal. Settling in Hobart in 2000 she delights in the rich heritage and cultural landscape of Tasmania. In her role she encourages authenticity in contemporary intervention, from the context to the detail, from the redevelopment of major civic buildings, to a remote Georgian homestead, or indeed this exceptional 1950s house by James Esmond Dorney.
