

Denis Gojak

Denis Gojak is a Senior heritage manager at the NSW Roads and Traffic Authority. He has also worked extensively in private consultancy, as a heritage manager and historical archaeologist for the NSW National Parks and Wildlife Service and Department of Planning, and is also a Research Associate of the University of Sydney. His paper for the [Un]Loved Modern Conference ties to a broader research interest in the heritage of market gardening and ethnicity in Australian society. He also brings personal experience in growing up on a market garden within the community he discusses, growing glasshouse tomatoes and cucumbers.

Australian Institute of Architects

ISC20C

ICOMOS International Scientific Committee on 20th
Century Heritage