

Jacqueline Hucker

Jacqueline Hucker B.A. (Queen's University), M.A. (Carleton University) is an architectural historian. She was a member of the National Historic Sites Directorate of Parks Canada for many years and served as Manager of Canada's Federal Heritage Buildings Review Office from 2000-2005. Jacqueline has a special interest in the impact of the First World War on the Modern Movement. She was a member of the conservation team that recently worked to restore the Vimy Monument, Canada's First World War memorial in France. Jacqueline Hucker is co-author of A Guide To Canadian Architectural Styles (Broadview Press: 2nd.edition, 2004).

Australian Institute of Architects

ISC20C

ICOMOS International Scientific Committee on 20th
Century Heritage