

Meg Quinlisk

Meg Quinlisk is a historian and associate with Clive Lucas, Stapleton & Partners, heritage architects. She had a brief stint as an architectural history major at university in America before completing her postgraduate qualification in archaeology at Queen's University Belfast. Since migrating to Australia in 1999, Meg has contributed to research and conservation planning for many places including The Mint, NSW Parliament House, and Fisher Library at the University of Sydney.

Australian Institute of Architects

ISC20C

ICOMOS International Scientific Committee on 20th Century Heritage