

Meredith Walker

Meredith Walker is a heritage practitioner and activist. She grew up in a modernist house disliked by many passersby and has a long term interest in mid-twentieth century architecture and gardens. Her small practice, Heritage Futures, includes working with communities to understand the meanings of places and object. Meredith was actively involved with the development of The Burra Charter and its guidelines and is co author of The Illustrated Burra Charter: Good practice for heritage places (Australia ICOMOS 2004). Meredith is a former member of several NSW government boards and committees, past chair of Australia ICOMOS, a founding member of the National Apron Front and winner of the NSW National Trust's 2009 lifetime achievement award.
