

Simon Reeves

Simon Reeves, B Arch (Hons), is an architectural historian and heritage consultant from Melbourne with a specific interest in the heritage of the twentieth century and, particularly, the post-war period. He has worked as a research assistant on scholarly projects (notably the 1998 catalogue of the work of Walter and Marion Griffin), as a curator of architectural archives, and has contributed to journals and other publications. He spent seven years with the Melbourne firm of Heritage Alliance, undertaking several major projects concerned with twentieth century places, before starting his own consultancy practice, Built Heritage Pty Ltd, to specialise in twentieth century and post-war heritage.
